NOTES:

- 1. The 5th Infantry Division was a pre-war Regular Army formation, which was based at Catterick Camp in Northern Command. It was not up to the full infantry divisional establishment. The division had arrived in France in December 1939 with only two brigades. It was brought up to establishment and joined II Corps, and later III Corps. The division fought at the battle of the Ypres Comines Canal between 26 and 28 May 1940 whilst under the command of II Corps. The division was evacuated from Dunkirk in Late May 1940. On its return to the United Kingdom, the division was re-equipped before the 13th and 17th Brigades were detached for the invasion of Madagascar in April 1942. The rest of the division went to India, where the units were reunited in August 1942. The division was only in India for a short period, leaving on 20 August 1942 to travel by sea to Iraq. On arrival on 28 August 1942, it came under command of III Corps in Iraq, later moving to Persia. It left on 31 January 1943 to travel by land through Syria to Egypt, where it joined XIII Corps in preparation for the landing in Sicily on 10 July 1943. It fought throughout the campaign, moving to Italy on 3 September 1943.
- On 15 January 1941, the 3rd Bn. The Tower Hamlet Rifles joined as the divisional reconnaissance regiment. On the 30th January 1941, the battalion was redesignated as the 5th Bn. Reconnaissance Corps. On the 6th June 1942, it became known as the 5th Regiment, Reconnaissance Corps.
- 3. The battalion joined as the divisional machine gun battalion on 11 November 1941. The battalion was a second line Territorial Army battalion which had been based at Macclesfield in September 1939. The battalion had served in France and Belgium in May 1940 as Corps Troops before joining the division.
- 4. This regiment had been formed in April 1940 as a duplicate of the 155th (Lanarkshire Yeomanry) Field Regiment. The regiment had sailed for North Africa in July 1942 and joined the division in Iraq on 29 August 1942 in place of the 9th Field Regiment, which had remained in Madagascar.
- 5. This regiment had been formed in December 1938 as part of the Territorial Army. It joined the division on 5 February 1942 whilst serving in Iraq. It remained with the division for the rest of the war.
